

An Eggceptional Match – Prospective Parent – GC Program Information Packet

Welcome

Dear Prospective Parent(s):

The very definition of a surrogate is: a woman who gives birth for another: a woman who bears a child for an individual or couple, with the intention of handing the child(ren) back to the parent(s) at birth. AEM conducts an interview and review of previous pregnancies to include OB and delivery records on all Gestational Carrier candidates. All experienced GC's have had psychological screenings performed, although depending on the timeframe that has passed or clinical requirements, they may need an updated screening prior to approval. . First time GC's will be psychologically screened as they are chosen. This will be conducted during an in home visit by a licensed social worker or psychologist. We educate all GC's to fully inform them about the medical procedures and commitment necessary to be a gestational carrier. Our GC candidates must meet the following criteria:

Must be between the age of 21 and 42

Ideal BMI of 18.5-30.0

Healthy lifestyle

Must pass physical and psychological evaluation

Have had at least one successful/uncomplicated pregnancy AND birth to term

Currently NOT breast feeding (must have 3 normal periods after weaning)

No more than 5 deliveries including no more than 3 C-sections (surrogacy can be the 6th)

No history of extreme post-partum depression

Non-smoking, no history of alcoholism, drug abuse or clinical mental illness

Supportive and stable living environment

Not currently on public assistance

Living in the United States with surrogate friendly laws

An Eggceptional Match believes that the matching process is unique to each person and understands that the need for lifestyle and personality compatibility varies with each match.

This is a deeply moving and intense experience and it is essential that like-minded personalities and temperaments take precedence over appearances.

Thanks for always encouraging me and for taking care of me too! You have made this process so amazingly easy and calm.

- Colorado GC

You definitely go above and beyond. That is very evident! You are a pleasure to work with!

- Nevada GC

I would love to be matched through you again!!!! I can't imagine there to be a better Agency!
